1. What is the Newfoundland and Labrador Provincial Nominee Program (NLPNP)?

The Newfoundland and Labrador Provincial Nominee Program (NLPNP) is an immigration program that is administered by the province of Newfoundland and Labrador. It operates under an agreement with the federal Department of Citizenship and Immigration Canada. It allows Newfoundland and Labrador to nominate applicants to the federal government for permanent residence under two categories: Skilled Worker and International Graduate.

The NLPNP offers:

- Applicant selection based on the province's economic and labour force needs;
- Application processing times that are faster than for other federal immigration classes;
- Provincial Nominee Program Officers who can offer advice and assistance to applicants.

2. How does the NLPNP work?

The NLPNP is a two-step immigration process:

Step 1: Nomination Process

- Send your Application to Provincial Nominee Program for processing.
- A Provincial Nominee Program Officer will conduct an interview and will carry out an employer reference check (if applicable).
- A Provincial Nominee Program Officer reviews and processes your application.

If approved, the NLPNP will:
(a) send a nomination certificate to Citizenship and Immigration Canada (CIC) and,
(b) send a nomination letter and a letter explaining how to forward your application to the appropriate CIC visa office.

Applications will be assessed on a case-by-case basis and will be given priority processing. Once you are nominated, you then submit your Permanent Resident application to the appropriate Visa officer as directed by your PNP specialist.
Step 2: Permanent Resident Visa Process

- Send your permanent resident application to CIC with your NLPNP nomination letter. The address will be given to you by your PNP specialist.
- CIC will consider your application after they receive the nomination certificate from the NLPNP.
- CIC completes health, security and criminal reviews and will then issue a visa to qualified applicants.

3. What is the NLPNP Skilled Worker Category?

The Skilled Worker category is for prospective immigrants and Temporary Foreign Workers currently working in NL who have certain skills which are beneficial to the provincial labour market. These skills must fill a shortage or specialized need in the existing provincial labour market. Applicants must have either a guaranteed job offer from a local employer or be currently employed within the province on a valid work permit.

4. Who is eligible to apply to the NLPNP Skilled Worker Category?

You are eligible for the Skilled Worker category if you:

- Have a full-time job offer from a Newfoundland and Labrador employer, or a job or job offer that has compensation in the form of a salary and benefits package that meets provincial employment standards and prevailing wage rates;
- Have a Citizenship and Immigration Canada Work Permit or is entitled to apply for one;
- Have the qualifications, training, skills, and/or accreditation required for the job;
- Can demonstrate the intention and ability to settle permanently in Newfoundland and Labrador;
- Have a job or job offer that does not contravene existing bargaining unit agreements or any employment disputes;
- Can demonstrate that you have sufficient settlement funds and financial resources to successfully establish yourself and any dependents in Newfoundland and Labrador;
- Your employer (or future employer) can demonstrate a need for your skill set; and
- Can demonstrate sufficient English or French language capability to perform your employment duties.
5. Who is not eligible to apply to the NLPNP Skilled Worker Category?

You are not eligible for the Skilled Worker category if:

- You are a failed refugee claimant or a refugee claimant living in Newfoundland and Labrador;
- You do not have a full-time job offer from a Newfoundland and Labrador employer.
- You or any dependent family member over the age of 18 (whether or not they are accompanying them) have a criminal record;

10. What happens to my Application Package?

Once your application package arrives at our office, a Program Officer will review it to see if it meets the eligibility criteria for the NLPNP Skilled Worker Category.

You will be contacted by letter, fax, or electronic mail (e-mail) to acknowledge receipt of your application.

The NLPNP may ask for additional clarification or documentation. As part of the nomination process, you will be contacted for an interview with your assigned Program Officer.
You must notify your Program Officer of any changes in your status or eligibility criteria for this category, including change of employer or loss of employment.

If the NLPNP decides that you are not eligible for the NLPNP, you may apply again at a later date if your situation changes and you meet the eligibility requirements.

11. If your application is approved for nomination

If your application is approved for nomination, your next steps are:

• Apply to Citizenship and Immigration Canada (CIC). Your federal forms, supporting documents, and a letter of nomination will be sent to you by your Provincial Nominee specialist. You will also receive detailed instructions on sending your application to the appropriate Canadian visa office.

• The Canadian visa office will send you instructions on medical examinations. They may require additional documentation at this time. In some cases, you may need to attend an interview. Wait for instructions from your Visa office.

• If you meet all the requirements, Citizenship and Immigration Canada will issue permanent residence visas for you and your dependents.

12. If your application for nomination is refused

If your application is refused, you will receive a Letter of Refusal from the Office of Immigration and Multiculturalism. The letter will provide you with details concerning the reasons for the refusal of your application.

There is no appeal - nomination under the Newfoundland and Labrador Provincial Nominee Program is at the sole discretion of the Office of Immigration and Multiculturalism.

Both you and your dependents may re-apply to the NLPNP after six months from the date indicated on your Letter of Refusal. If you reapply after six months, you must prove that you have sufficient training, experience, and/or a stronger connection to the province to indicate the possibility of a successful new application.
13. Conditions for cancellation of an NLPNP Nomination Certificate

The Office of Immigration and Multiculturalism (OIM) will issue a nomination certificate to an applicant if he/she meets the appropriate program criteria. The OIM may cancel the nomination certificate at any time prior to the issuance of a Permanent Resident visa from Citizenship and Immigration Canada or prior to landing in Newfoundland and Labrador if any of the following occur:

- The Canadian visa office advises that you or an accompanying dependent is inadmissible as a result of medical, criminality, or security checks;
- The Canadian visa office confirms that any information provided in your application is false or fraudulent;
- It is determined at the port of entry, prior to being landed, that you do not intend to travel to, or permanently reside in, Newfoundland and Labrador;
- You have lost your employment in the province as a result of:
  - charges having been laid against you under the Criminal Code of Canada;
  - having been convicted of a criminal offence;
  - having had your employment terminated as a result of contravention of any employment, labour, or union regulations in force as a result of your employment;
- You are unable to find a suitable replacement position within a reasonable period of time. The replacement position needs to meet the same criteria as the original job and the OIM needs to be satisfied that the position has potential as an ongoing career path and has the ability to provide adequate financial support.
- It is has been determined by OIM that you have permanently left Newfoundland and Labrador;

Prior to a decision being taken to withdraw a nomination certificate, applicants will receive notification of the matter, in writing, and will be provided the opportunity to present any information that they believe relevant respecting a final decision of withdrawal.

OIM reserves the right to conduct an investigation of any other matter that may come to its attention that may impact the status of the Nomination Certificate.
